"The Math-U-See strategy involves three components: video instruction for the teacher and student, hands-on-manipulatives to make abstract math concepts understandable, and textbooks to provide practice, long term review, and real life applications. Watch the DVD until you understand the new topic, use the manipulatives until the student understands the new material, then work through the student text until the math concept has been internalized. Then take the test to demonstrate that this topic has been mastered before moving to the next lesson."
