Does the mere thought of opening your home to others send you into a tailspin? Do you want to know how to handle unexpected guests? If so, this book is for you. God tells us to show hospitality to others. Hospitality isn't the same as entertaining, and it doesn't need to be intimidating. You don't need expensive crystal, fine china, linen tablecloths and a completely equipped gourmet kitchen to be hospitable. All you need is a warm heart, a friendly manner and a willing spirit.

Doris Greig practiced her own unique style of hospitality, calling it relaxed availability. It allowed her to open her home and her heart to unexpected guests from all over the world, and brought rich blessings to her and her family. This warm-hearted book shares her secrets of the many forms of hospitality, as well as 250 quick and easy recipes and household hints. Questions for reflection and discussion are included at the end of each chapter.
